June 2020

Telling new stories

The world looks very different today. It's June, and the sun may be shining, but our lives are shaped by all that has been happening to us and our world.

I wonder how you have been telling the story? Can you see how it's changed over these past days and weeks? The last Sunday to see worship in the Cathedral was, of all days, Mothering Sunday - the day when historically the mother church of the Diocese celebrates all that the Diocese is, and we give thanks for our churches, our church families, and our human families. Yet even on that day, we were streaming worship from an empty Cathedral - we thought for the first time, but it turned out to be for the only time, as we were soon to be barred from our buildings altogether.

This has been a comprehensive re-boot of the world, and the church. We are often wanting to 'get back to basics' in our everyday lives. Some things have carried on, which is great - and one is a piece of work we had started before we knew what Covid 19 meant, and it included a request that the Diocese could use the Cathedral font! What on earth, our business manager wondered, did the Diocese want with a massive boulder?

It turned out it wasn't that font, but rather the type face we use, based on Ralph Beyer's tablets of the word, communicating the biblical truths of our faith. Yet between them, the font, that great, solid lump of rock from a hillside above Bethlehem, in which we mark the start of adult or infant lives as baptised children of God, and the words on the Cathedral walls which remind us that God holds all we are and will be, we find the security for navigating these strange new lands, and allowing our lives to be re-shaped by the God who was born in history as one of us and walks with us and all his children each step of this extraordinary and unfamiliar journey. May God reveal to us new truths as we live and tell new stories of love and life through these strangest of days.

Very Revd John Witcombe
Dean of Coventry

Open Heaven

Open Heaven is an initiative in the city of Coventry, uniting churches from every denomination, network and stream, to prayer-walk every street during the month of June 2020.

The initiative follows many years of prayer-walking in Coventry by many, and over 12 months of prayer and conversation among a number of church leaders who have sensed God prompting them to launch Open Heaven as the next step of united prayer. The initiative builds upon the existing work of unity among the churches of the city, exemplified by prayer gatherings such as City Praise and Prayer, and a significant number of inter-church compassion and outreach projects that serve the city.

The Open Heaven app is available to download. On the app you will be able to select streets to pray for and mark when you have prayed for them. The plan is that every street in Coventry will be prayed for by the end of June.

Bishop Christopher says:

"Open Heaven sounded like a great initiative when it was first planned. Little did we know then what Coventry, the country and the world would be going through now. So I'm so grateful that the Lord of the Church laid it on people's hearts some months ago to pray for every street in our city because now, with every household struggling with the effects of Coronavirus in some way, the urgent call on every disciple of Christ in Coventry is to pray for our city, that heaven will be open and God's kingdom come to every person."

If you are not based in Coventry, please pray for this initiative and perhaps consider prayer walking in your local area!

Peter and Paul, Apostles

Tue 30 All Saints Leek Wootton. Clergy: Jim Perryman, Andrew Haines. Readers: Audrey Rowberry, Nigel Stallard. We give thanks for the strong community spirit within the parish, and that the church is at the heart; thanks too that the worshipping life has flourished through livestream services. Pray that we will not lose what we've gained, when we gain what we've lost!

Hope Hub at St Laurence's Church

On Wednesday 29th April, the Hope Hub opened at St Laurence's Church. Following extensive listening and conversations with various partners, plus help from funders & supporters volunteering their time; the team at St Laurence's Church have worked together to create an emergency hub based at the Church Hall to support those in need of extra help during COVID-19 in the Longford ward, which includes the communities of Alderman's Green, Bell Green, Courthouse Green & Longford.

The offer is focused around 3 core needs they have identified: Emergency Food Parcels, Emotional Support & Safe Place. They are approved to issue foodbank e-vouchers to those who qualify and fulfil delivery of emergency parcels through a simple, referral-to-doorstep contactless delivery system.

The Revd Gareth Irvine, Vicar of St Laurence's Church says:

"We've been so encouraged by the response already from our community to come together during this unprecedented and unsettling period of lockdown caused by the coronavirus pandemic.

In the history of pandemics, the church has often stepped up to support and care for those most affected through showing mercy, compassion and generosity in people's time of need. We are overwhelmed and humbled by the support we have already received from our partners Coventry Food Bank & Coventry City Council; together with generous funding from Godiva Lions, Severn Trent & the Heart of England Community Resilience Fund. We have already sourced well over £6000 worth of resources – which is quite amazing!

If you or someone you know needs help right now – please don't wait, please reach out – your community stands ready to help."

You can read more about how the team are working and make direct referrals or requests for individuals or families at their dedicated Hope Hub website: stlaurences.org/hopehub or by telephoning 02476 668231.

Mental Health and Coronavirus

For a long time, the mental health of our nation has been under pressure, with many people seeking support and a safe place to talk. Adding coronavirus into this already pressured situation means that many more people are feeling anxious, low in mood or unable to enjoy life in the same way. Since the beginning of the church, people of Christian faith have provided support to those who are struggling with difficult emotions, and now we are needed more than ever. The 18th –24th May was Mental Health Awareness Week, and the theme was kindness, something we can all show, and which can make a huge difference in the lives of people who are mentally and emotionally vulnerable due to this pandemic.

A new telephone support line, the 'Coventry Churches Info Line' started on Thursday 21st May. This line is open each Tuesday between 10 am and 12 noon, and each Thursday between 2 pm and 4 pm. There is a 24-hour answerphone which will be responded to during session times only. The volunteers who run it are people with lived experience of mental ill health, and those who are trained in signposting, listening and guidance. It is a place to get information on mental health services throughout the city, find a listening ear and a reminder of God's presence in the brokenness of the current circumstances. There is a Punjabi speaker available.

Along with this, the Reverend Ali Hogger, Vicar of St Paul's Foleshill has begun to make online versions of sessions of The Life Course, a Christian mental wellbeing resource she has been running for many years. These are available at on the St. Paul's website and can be used either as an individual or a group.

At St Andrew's Eastern Green, they are running the Tastelife course, designed to help people with eating disorders. To find out more and to register an interest contact the vicar, the Reverend Greg Smith, at gregsmith31760@tiscali.co.uk.
